IRREGULAR PRACTICE OF A REGULAR PRACTITIONER.

The members of the medical faculty, here and elsewhere, are great sticklers for what they term the regular practice.—There are exceptions, however, to this general rule, and one notable instance we are about to relate.

In the summer of '48, about the period of the close of the Mexican war, one of the officers of our army—an amateur zoologist—returning home from the scenes of his perils and his glory, brought with him a rare number of insects and animals, indigenous to Mexico. He put up for some time at the St. Charles Hotel, where his cabinet of natural curiosities attracted much attention. Among them was a living ichneumon fly, a repulsive looking animal, of the most destructive instincts, that would destroy and devour ants and other insects with a most sanguinary rapacity. A gentleman whom for the nonce we shall call Jones, was at the time stopping in the St. Charles, and he formed for the ichneumon a strong dislike; indeed, having once seen it, he could not bear again to look at it. He was a man of kindly nature and generous qualities. His mind genial and sociable, to a fault, and this sometimes led him into convival excesses which tended to cloud a mind and confuse an understanding, which were otherwise strong, clear, and comprehensive.

About the time we speak of, he indulged to such an extent in a debauch that mania-a-potu followed. He was no sooner seized upon his distempered imagination. The single obnoxious animal multiplied into ten thousand. They covered his body, he thought, and like so many vampires, were sucking his life's blood from him. He looked out into the room, and saw them engaged in a most deadly conflict with grotesque red and blue monkeys—and they were drawn up in solid column all round the mosquito bar to prevent his escape.

His nerves were unstrung, his brain was fevered, and his distress of mind could not have been founded on reality, instead of being as they were, the emanations of a disordered imagination. Under the circumstance, his friends concluded to send for Dr. ——, one of our most eminent city physicians, with the view of his prescribing something to allay the nervous irritability of the patient.

They did send for him, and soon after, the doctor arrived smoking his segar, caring nothing about the antics of ichneumon or the pranks of red monkeys. As he entered the room, he found the patient engaged in a vigorous conflict with some imagmary enemy beneath the mosquito bar, acting more, however, it would seem, on the defensive than offensive.—Now he would slap his hand across his face as if to drive something off his nose, now he would draw up his knee and make a spasmodic kick towards the foot of the bed—now he would make his open hand resound on his shoulder, and now again on his thigh. The odds against him seemed to be overpowering, yet he battled manfully.

The doctor saw at once what his disease was, and at once he resolved to resort to a quick remedy for its cure.

'Don't you think, Doctor,' said a friend of the patient—who, by the way, was a regular practitioner too—'don't you think phlebotomy would have excellent effect in this case?'

'Don't think it would be worth a straw,' said the doctor.

'I am sure,' said the nurse, who believed that hydropathy was a cure for all diseases, 'I'm sure that if he got a cold bath and his temples bathed with ice, it would afford him great relief.'

'Fiddle-sticks,' said the doctor—puffing his segar as unconcernedly as before.

'I have seen a man laboring under a similar malady'—said the barkeeper of the establishment, who felt a strong friendship for the patient, and who was present at the quasi medical consultation—'and gentle purgatives gave him immediate relief.'

'You did, did you?' said the doctor.

'I did,' said the bar-keeper.

'What a pity,' said the doctor, 'that you did not publish the fact in the columns of the Medical Journal!'

While this conversation was going on, poor Jones, who had taken lessons in boxing from Roper, was availing himself of his knowledge of the art of self defence, to beat off the hideous enemy. The doctor approached the bed, saying, when he got there.

'Halloo, Jones'—they were on terms of familiar intimacy with one another; 'halloo, Jones; what are you about, what are you driving at?'

'Oh; doctor,' said poor Jones; the perspiration running down his face, and fear seated in his eyes, 'oh, doctor, can't you drive off those ichneumons? There, there!' (Here he gave his ear a crack.) 'That fellow was striving to get into my ear.'

'So you are troubled with the ichneumons, are you?' said the doctor.

'Troubled with them!' said Jones, 'I'm tortured, I'm maddened to death with them.'

'Well, I must try and relieve you,' said the doctor, and laying his segar on the table, he took up a boot jack that lay before him; and just as Jones had turned over to have a tussle with an imaginary ichneumon, the doctor gave him a lusty crack with the boot jack on the posteriors, that made him bounce in the bed, which bounce made the bed shake.

'Halloo doctor!' said Jones, 'what are you about?'

'Just chasing off the ichneumons,' said the doctor, and he gave Jones another lick with the boot-jack, striking him in the same place.

'Murder, murder!' said Jones: 'you'll kill me.'

'No,' said the doctor, repeating the blow, 'but I'll kill the ichneumons,' and poor Jones received another lick with the boot jack well laid on,

'Murder, murder, save me—save me,' said Jones, jumping out of bed, running round the room, followed by the doctor, plying the bootajack all the time: 'Oh, enough, enough doctor,' said Jones, getting behind a rocking chair to shield himself from the boot-jack.

'Then you cry enough, do you,' said the doctor.

'Too much—altogether too much,' said Jone.

'Do you see any ichneumons now?' said the doctor.

'Not one,' said Jones.

'I thought not,' said the doctor, 'get to bed now;' and Jones, his thighs covered over with red blotches, the imprints of the boot-jack, quietly went to bed.

'Now take this,' said the doctor, filling out a pint bottle of London Porter, in which he put an opiate, and Jones as submissive as a child, swallowed it as ordered. He soon fell asleep, and after a long and refreshing one, awoke well.—Poor fellow! he is since dead, but as long as he lived, he never again saw an ichneumon.—N. O. Delta.

THE DYING BOY.

By James O'Reilly.

Mother, mother, I am dying,
Falling, dying, mother dear,
Come and kiss my pale cheek mother,
And my fading moments cheer.

Draw your chair still nearer, mother,
Sit here closely by my bed,
And tell me you will think of Willie,
When his form lies with the dead.

For I know I'll soon be risen
To that holy place above,
Where, with bright robed saints and angels
I shall dwell in peace and love.

Mother, I've been wild and wayward,
Paining oft your loving heart;
May I claim your kind forgiveness,
Ere Death's summons bid us part?

Ever good to me you're proven,
Best of mothers, gentle, mild,
Sweetest counsels often spoken
To your young but erring child.

Raise me mother, while I listen,
Say, are not those heavenly sounds?
Hark! with what enchanting music,
Richly all the air abounds.

Look, too, glorious spirits coming,
Long to waft my soul away.
Shining forms all round are standing,
Brighter than the beams of day.

Me, my angel sister beckons,
To her home above the sky;
Seems to whisper, 'Oh, how blessed
Never more to grieve or die.'

Surely mother, all are happy
In that world which knows no sin,
Where all tears are dried forever.
And all shall wear the crowns they win.

A wicked wag once courted a buxom housemaid, and when he should have been prepared to marry her, decamped to parts unknown. 'Well, Ann,' said her mistress, 'you've lost your lover, haven't you?' 'Oh, no, indeed, ma'am, he'll come back, for I have his promise to marry me, and in writing too.' 'Indeed, let me see it, won't you?' So out from between the leaves of her bible, Ann produced a sort of promisory note, reading as follows,—"I promise to marry Ann J—— ninety days after date, value received, J, B,

Girls get ripe much earlier than boys. The moment the former get beyond fifteen they are 'young ladies,' while boys of that age are only thought fit to lug water, and shovel away snow storms. A girl at eighteen knows more than a boy at twenty-one—after that age, however, corduroy not only overtakes calico but passes her.

If you would make a friend of a man, don't talk but listen. By not replying you seem to say that he is unanswerable.—Correcting a person's errors may add to another man's wisdom, but it don't speak much for yours. We once made an enemy of an old friend by just telling him that weathercocks couldn't crow.

A prisoner being brought up to the police court, the following dialogue passed between him and the sitting magistrate,

'How do you live?'

'Pretty well sir, generally a joint and a pudding at dinner.'

'I mean sir, how do you get your bread?

'I beg your worship's pardon, sometimes at the baker's, and sometimes at the chandler's shop.'

'You may be as witty as you please, sir, but I mean simply to ask you, how do you do?'

'Tolerably well, I thank your worship, I hope your worship is well.'

WASHINGTON CITY D. C

SATURDAY SEPTEMBER 27,::::1851.

ABOLITION—ALIAS CHURCH & STATE—CONVENTIONS.—RECENT MURDERS AND ARRESTS OF THE CRIMINALS,—AND LAST THOUGH NOT LEAST, THE BOSTON JUBILEE.

All these seem to be adverse to this overbearing party, and shows that the people of the North no less than the South will not submit to be rode over rough shod by those insolent men. Nothing has pleased us so well as the manly independence of the Whigs of Massachusetts in their late convention. New York too, has done herself much honor, both Whigs and Democrats. But the Rail*Road* Jubilee has killed them fout right, while the Christiana tragedy has gained them little favor.

What hearts can they have, just took upon the deplorable deception they have practiced upon those unfortunate colored as well as white people, who are now in prison; whilst they are sneaking about in holes and corners for safety, with no more compunction than brutes. The free whites, and free blacks, ought to learn the character of their pretended friends from this time forward, and that all this strife is not on their account, but on their own. Can people so ultra in everything but humanity and common sense, feel compation for human distress, who would murder his fellow-man for opinion sake. We challenge the whole nation of fanatics to show what connection the following has with common sense, or the subject at issue—

"God has authorized no man to violate his law, nor any set of men under his authority to annul it, or justify disobedience and destroy individual responsibility."*

This bold assertion was made by a correspondent of the Era, week before last, in commenting upon Gen. Scott's letter, in which he intimates that Congress has no right to legislate upon slavery for the District of Columbia. See how they make themselves equal with the Almighty!

"The Authors of the Outrage.—The Lancaster Examiner, to show who is responsible for the tragic violation of law in the Christiana outrage, publishes the following resolutions, adopted at a public meeting, held October 11, 1850, in Bart-lett township, within three miles of the place where the murder was committed. The Fugitive Slave law had just been passed,

"Resolved, That the highest principles of justice and humanity, as well as the fundamental principles of Christianity, require that we should not assist in the recapture and return of a fugitive from slavery, and that in a choice between our obligations to these principles and to any law in opposition to them, we cannot for a moment hesitate to say we will obey no such law,

"Resolved, that we consider no individual, or individuals, have a right to keep any other individual or individuals in bondage—and that we will harbor, clothe, feed, and aid in the escape of fugitive slaves, in opposition to the law."

This occurred nearly a year previous to the above. What will our citizens encourage next? What is the press about. Murders and rebellion are called Christianity, this is false.—St. Paul commands Christians to obey their rulers. Will God tolerate murderers, thieves, and outlaws, who believes it? These must be the soap fat collectiors, the ten per cent missionaries, they generally went on foot, and would frighten poor ignorant lone women out of their last boiling of meat, and walk off with it, saying they were sent by the Lord, the Lord wanted it to spread his gospel. Had the United States Bank continued, this bloody work would have commenced sooner perhaps,—but "stop payment" and you stop them.

If these men were in earnest in regard to abolishing slavery, they would unite with the colonization Society, one of the greatest as it is the most Christian conception that ever entered the heart of man.

Its benevolence and sound Christian principles are tested by facts. It is stamped throughout from the first cent advanced for the purchase of the slave till he is landed upon his own native soil—with the noblest philanthropy that ever warmed the human heart,—the slaves including their freedom, is supplied with a free passage and every comfort that heart can wish, besides utensils for farming when they reach their destination. Heaven will be the reward of their benefactors.

But the abolitionists oppose this benevolent institution: will any one doubt their motive? we say boldly they want these colored people for troops to "fight the battles of the Lord." You will all see, they are the worst enemies the colored race ever had.

Footnote: * This is blaspheming the Almighty, and denying the scriptures, which asserts that no one knows the thoughts of God not even the angels in heaven.

A NEW PAPER.

We have the pleasure to announce to the public, a new paper published in this city, called the 'Christian Statesman.' It is just such a paper as the people ought to have had long since. It will be hailed with a cordial welcome by every friend of his country. We need a rival for the Era—and the newspaper devoted as it is to African Colonization, Civilization, and Literature. The following are the terms,

REV. R. R. GURLEY, } Editors,
DANIEL R. GOODLOE, }

THE CHRISTIAN STATESMAN:

A Weekly Newspaper,

Office on Seventh Street, (up Stairs,) opposite Odd Fellows' Hall.

Terms of Advertising.

Advertisements not exceeding ten lines inserted three times for one dollar, every subsequent insertion, twenty-five cents.

Orders and communications should be addressed to

Gurley & Goodloe, Washington D. C.

Colonization Rooms,
Washington, June 11, 1851.

'At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the American Colonization Society, held on the 10th instant, the Secretary laid before the Committee the Prospectus of a newspaper, to be called the Christian Statesman, and to be devoted to sound morality in Politics, to the Union of the States, to the Cause of African Colonization and Civilization, and to all topics of a high and general interest to their country—to be published in this city, by the Rev. R. R. Gurley and D. R. Goodloe, after the reading of which, it was Resolved. That we cordially and earnestly recommend the Christian Statesman to the patronage of the friends of african colonization throughout the United States.

Wm. McLain, Sec. Am. Col. Soc.'

We find a variety of fine Belles Letues reading in the Statesman, and some of the choicest relics of history. Success to them. One of the Editors, Mr. Goodloe we have not the happiness to know,—but who does not know Rev. R. R. Gurley—a gentleman, a philanthropist, and one of the finest scholars of the age. For many years this Rev, gentleman has been engaged principally in the charitable and noble work of promoting the happiness of the colored race,

Rhode Island, August 14, 1851.

'Reverend sir, I received by the last mail a newspaper called the Christian Statesman, at the head of which your name appears as editor. My attention is called to the prospectus, and I am desired to act as an agent.

In looking over its columns, I see nothing to present to my mind the cause which the paper is devoted to—Colonization—in any new light. But believing, as I do, that it tends directly to foment unnatural and unchristian prejudices against our fellow-countrymen of African descent, I can not consent in any way to lend myself to the scheme which you seem to have at heart.

If I were an american of african as I am an american Anglo-Saxon blood, I should regard you as a deadly foe to my race, upon whom all the wise and the good should look with scorn, for these reasons, While you profess to value the Declaration of Independence, and of course believe that all men are endowed by their Creator with the inalienable rights of liberty and the pursuit of happiness, you seek insidiously to deprive a portion of our fellow citizens of these benefits, making their condition as slaves perpetual, if possible, by sending from our country their natural friends, the free black men.

You have honeyed words for those who disregard the fact, that the Constitution of the country was ordained to establish justice, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty. Yet you are a great friend to the constitution and the Union, and especially of those barbarous expositions of the former which put hounds on the track of God's image in the flying fugitive from slavery.

Professing to be a Christian, and animated by the gospel of liberty proclaimed by the Prince of Peace, which would break every yoke and let the oppressed go free, you present for admiration the men of the last Congress, who framed into laws compromise measures, which encourage the hunters of human chattels to roam amongst the homes of the Pilgrims for their prey—Christians, perhaps—amidst the haunts and refinements of modern civilization.

And I hope that some more honorable and better work may engage your mind and heart, in which I can accord to you, at least, the tribute of my respect, and subscribe myself, reverend sir, your friend and servant,

——— ———.

Rev. R. R. Gurley.

THE JUBILEE,—BOSTON.

It would be superfluous for us to raise our feeble voice on this happy occasion, such were the unanimous shouts of joy, particularly wherever the President of the United States and suite appeared, the applause was loud and unceasing, alike honorable to him and to Boston.

Boston knows how to do these things—full of life, energy, and generous feelings, her citizens know how to enjoy themselves better than almost any other city. They have a penchant for parade, nor do they spare any expense,—happy and warmhearted themselves, they make all so around them.

CAPITOL HILL.

The addition to the U. S. Capitol, now in progress in Washington, when completed will be one of the wonders of the world. We could not procure the plan of the addition in time for this paper, but had the pleasure to find Mr. Strong the Superintendent, and Mr. Kingsley, one of his boys at their post, and under them some hundred workmen laying the foundation. These gentlemen are from New York, and are said to be men of superior skill, trust, and ability. Mr. Strong whose family we have the pleasure to know, has been the architect for some years, upon all or most of the public buildings in that State; and as we have been told has adorned Albany, the seat of Government, with some of the finest architecture in the United States.

Mr. Strong is a middle aged man, of common height, rather stout, with regular manly features, and an open intelligent countenance. His keen blue eye, deep and penetrative, bespeaks great mental powers. But his chief attraction is his modesty, and plainness of dress and manners.

Mr Kingsley,

Mr K, is in the prime of life, tall, stout, and well formed, of the true New York independence—he is one of the finest specimens of manly beauty we have met with lately. 'Cost off, covered with dust, amidst men, hammers, carts, and horses, we found Mr K. One of our dandy workmen would as soon be caught with a sheep on his back, Success to him,

The miser has a double sin to answer for, he hoards up that which perishes, and perishes himself, because he deprived others of its use.

A wicked wag once courted a buxom housemaid, and when he should have been prepared to marry her, decamped to parts unknown. 'Well, Ann,' said her mistress, 'you've lost your lover, haven't you?' 'Oh, no, indeed, ma'am, he'll come back, for I have his promise to marry me, and in writing too.' 'Indeed, let me see it, won't you?' PROSPECTUS

OF THE

NATIONAL MONUMENT,

A WEEKLY JOURNAL,

To be published in Washington, under the sanction of the Washington National Monument Society.

JAMES C. PICKETT, Editor and Publisher.

The Monument is intended to be a literary, agricultural, and miscellaneous paper. It will contain select portions of the literature of the day—the best that can be found in American and European publications; interesting scientific articles, embracing mechanics, foreign and domestic news; a synopsis of the proceedings of Congress, and everything that such a journal might be expected to contain, with the exception of party politics, which will be at all times most rigorously excluded.

The Monument will be published for the express and sole purpose of aiding in the erection of the noble column now rising on the bank of the Potomac, in honor of the Father of his Country, and which every one who venerate the name of Washington, would rejoice to see completed. After deducting out of the subscription, the expense of the journal proposed to be published, the remaining funds will be faithfully applied, and without reserve, to the purpose indicated. The aid therefore, of all who are willing to contribute to so patriotic an object, and one so entirely national, is earnestly requested. By subscribing to the Monument a valuable journal at a low price may be obtained, while it will be doing something, at the same time, towards completing that majestic memorial of the Nation's gratitude.

The Board of Managers recommend Mr. Pickett, formerly Fourth Auditor of the Treasury and Charge d'Affaires to Peru, who proposes to edit and publish the Monument journal at one well qualified to perform the duties of editor, and to conduct the paper, faithfully and satisfactorily to the subscribers. They assure their fellow citizens that this enterprise is not a speculation got up for individual emolument. Mr. Pickett will make the experiment with his own means and at his own risk, and if successful, he will receive nothing more, and he asks nothing more, than a very moderate compensation for his services. Not one dollar therefore, of the direct subscription to the erection of the Monument will be, in any event, applied to the support of the paper, nor the Society in any manner held pecuniarily responsible.

To give the public an idea of what may be done with the journal it is proposed to publish it may be stated that a list of fifty thousand paying subscribers, at two dollars each, will yield an annual net profit of from fifty to sixty thousand dollars.

☞ The postmasters and Secretaries of all organized bodies throughout the Union, are respectfully requested to act as agents in obtaining subscriptions, thus aiding the great object of our exertions.

All moneys will be remitted and all letters and communications addressed prepaid, to the General agent of the Monument Society, Hon. Elisha Whittlesey, Washington.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST UNRIVALLED INDUCEMENTS FOR 1850

A MAMMOTH PAPER.

DEVOTED TO MORALITY, PURE LITERATURE, FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC NEWS, AGRICULTURE, SCIENCE, ART AND AMUSEMENT.

This paper contains from one-fourth to one half more than the generality of two Dollar city weeklies.

The Proprietors of the SATURDAY EVENING POST return their sincere thanks to their friends and the public for the patronage extended to them since the enlargement of their paper, and respectfully solicit a continuance of the same. The belief expressed in their last Prospectus, that the POST is destined to take it stand at the very head of the weekly press is fast becoming realized. The reason of this is in a great degree, to be found in the stand the POST has always taken against the immoral literature of the day. The public have felt, in the language of the North American and United States Gazette, of this city, that "The Post has done much towards correcting the taste of the newspaper reading public."

The proprietors of the Saturday Evening Post, in coming before the public with a new Prospectus, would respectfully solicit attention to what they have done in the past, as a guarantee for their promises of the future. They may safely say that no other paper in America has given to its readers so large and well chosen an amount of all kinds of reading, elegant and useful imaginative and practical, during the last year as the Post. To say nothing of other tales and sketches, what paper has laid before its subscribers during the past year four such novelets as Henery Benson,' 'The child Stealer,' 'Isabel Denison,' and The Deserted Wife?'

And the proprietors of the Post are determined that if possible the coming year shall be even a more brilliant one then the past. To begin with they have already secured the following original contributions, which will be published, and other choice pictures of life during the coming year:

The Baymounts: A Novelet by Miss Leslie; author of "Mrs, Washington Potts &c. &c.

The Bride Of An Evening, A Tale Of Western Life A Novelet, by Mrs Southworth, author of "retribution," 'The Deserted Wife,' &c

The Old Astrologer or, The Prophecy Fulfilled, A Novelet by T S Arthur, author of 'agnes or the Possessed,' the Child stealer,' &c,

The Belle And the Blue, A Novelet by Caroline Lee Hentz, author of "The Mob Cap," 'Aunt Patty's scrub

TOWNSEND'S SARSAPARILLA.

Most extraordinary Medicine in the world.

This Extract is put in quart bottles. It is six times cheaper, pleasanter, and warranted superior to any sold. It cured diseases, without vomiting, purging, sickening, or debilitating the patient.

The great beauty and superiority of this Sarsaparilla over all other remedies is, while it eradicates disease, it invigorates the body.

IT HAS PERFORMED MORE THAN 15,000 CURES

THIS YEAR

1,000 cures of Rheumatism.

1,000 cures of Dyspepsia.

2,000 cures of general debility and want of Nervous energy.

30,000 Female Complaints, and over 7,000 cures of Diseases of the blood viz;

Ulcers, scrofula erysipelas salt rheum pimples on the face &c, together with numerous cases of consumption liver complaints spine affections, &c. This, we are aware, must appear incredible, but we have letters from physicians and our agents from all parts of the United States informing us of extraordinary cures. R Van, Buskirk Esq, one of the most respectable druggists in Newark, New Jersey, informs us that he can refer to more than one hundred and fifty cases in that place alone. There are thousands of cases in the city of New York which we will refer to with pleasure, and to men of character well known.

Opinions of Physicians.

Dr. Townsend is almost daily receiving orders from physicians in different parts of the Union.

This is to certify that we the undersigned physicians of the city of Albany have in numerous cases prescribed Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla and believe it to be one of the most valuable preparations of Sarsaparilla in the Market

Albany, April 1 1845.

The following is from one of the most respectable physicians on Long Island.

Greenport July 19, 1846.

Dr. Townsend:—Dear Sir—it is with satisfaction that I have recently witnessed, in several cases the most beneficial results from your extract of Sarsaparilla, Being engaged in the practice of medicine, I have prescribed it in several cases and never without benefit. In the removal of diseases arising from a deranged state of the digestive organs, jaundice &c, it far exceeds anything of the kind ever offered to the public. You will please send me two dozen &c,

Capt. G W McLean, member of the Legislature, and late of the U. S. Navy, has kindly sent us the following certificate. It tells its own story.

Rahway Jan. 25 1847.

A year since I was taken with the influenza and my whole system left in a debilitated state. I was induced to try Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla.

After taking two or three bottles, I was very much relieved, and attributed it entirely to the said Sarsaparilla. I have continued taking it, and improve every day I believe it saved my life, and would not be without it under any consideration.

G. W. McLEAN.

Scrofula Cured.

This certificate conclusively proves that this Sarsaparilla has perfect control over the most obstinate diseases of the blood. Three persons cured in one house is unprecedented.

Three Children.

Dr. Townsend—Dear Sir, I have the pleasure to inform you that three of my children have been cured of the scrofula by the use of your excellent medicine. They were afflicted very severely with bad sores; having taken only four bottles, it took them away, for which I feel myself under deep obligation.

PROSPECTUS

NATIONAL MONUMENT,

A WEEKLY JOURNAL,

To be published in Washington, under the anction of the Washington National Monument Society.

JAMES C. PICKETT, Editor and Publisher.

The Monument is intended to be a literary, agricultural, and miscellaneous paper. It will contain select portions of the literature of the day—the best that can be found in American and European publications; interesting scientific articles, embracing mechanics, foreign and domestic news, a synopsis of the proceedings of Congress, and everything that such a journal might be expected to contain, with the exception of party politics, which will be at all times most rigorously excluded.

The Monument will be published for the express and sole purpose of aiding in the erection of the noble column now rising on the bank of the Potomac, in honor of the Father of his Country, and which every one who venerate the name of Washington, would rejoice to see completed. After deducting out of the subscription, the expense of the journal proposed to be published, the remaining funds will be faithfully applied, and without reserve, to the purpose indicated. The aid therefore, of all who are willing to contribute to so patriotic an object, and one so entirely national, is earnestly requested. By subscribing to the Monument a valuable journal at a low price may be obtained, while it will be doing something, at the same time, towards completing that majestic memorial of the Nation's gratitude.

The Board of Managers recommend Mr. Pickett, formerly Fourth Auditor of the Treasury and Charge d'Affaires to Peru, who proposes to edit and publish the Monument journal at one well qualified to perform the duties of editor, and to conduct the paper, faithfully and satisfactorily to the subscribers. They assure their fellow citizens that this enterprise is not a speculation got up for individual emolument. Mr. Pickett will make the experiment with his own means and at his own risk, and if successful, he will receive nothing more, and he asks nothing more, than a very moderate compensation for his services. Not one dollar therefore, of the direct subscription to the erection of the Monument will be, in any event, applied to the support of the paper, nor the Society in any manner held pecuniarily responsible.

To give the public an idea of what may be done with the journal it is proposed to publish it may be stated that a list of fifty thousand paying subscribers, at two dollars each, will yield an annual net profit of from fifty to sixty thousand dollars.

☞ The postmasters and Secretaries of all organized bodies throughout the Union, are respectfully requested to act as agents in obtaining subscriptions, thus aiding the great object of our exertions.

All moneys will be remitted and all letters and communications addressed prepaid, to the General agent of the Monument Society, Hon. Elisha Whittlesey, Washington.

TERMS.—The Monument will be printed on a double royal sheet—the paper and type being of the best quality—and in quarto form, containing sixteen large pages, that it may be more easily preserved. The price will be two dollars per annum, payable on the receipt of the second number. The nature of the enterprise not admitting of any credit, none can be given.

Sets and Clubs will be furnished with the Monument on the following terms—3 copies for $5, 5 copies, $8, 10 copies, $15, &c.
